

Indigenous Nations of México

Our Own Names & Locations

This map is in honor of all of the Indigenous Nations of México. It seeks to encourage people - Native and non-Native - to remember that modern-day México was once a vast land of autonomous Native peoples, who called México by many different names according to their languages and geography. The hope is that it instills pride in the descendants of these Peoples, brings an awareness of Indigenous history and remembers the Nations that fought and continue to fight valiantly to preserve their way of life.

We invite any suggestions that will help to make this map more accurate to Native languages and geography to be sent to us by email at: indigenousnations@indigenousnations.org.
